DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments filed 10/18/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Claims 1-2, 5-10, and 12-20 are under consideration.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-2, 5-10, and 12-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. This is an enablement rejection.

This rejection is maintained for reasons of record.

Applicant argues that the present invention neither involves nor claims either the association of particular antigens or antibodies related to particular diseases. This is not agreed with. In order for the claimed method to be operable and achieve the object of the method (identifying whether a test subject is suffering from one or more systemic autoimmune diseases) these associations of particular antigens or antibodies related to particular diseases must be embraced by the claims even if it is only in the context of a statistically derived decision from k-nearest neighbor algorithms. This is still an association that the specification does not provide and would constitute undue experimentation to practice.

Applicant argues that the present invention is concerned with correlating using a KNN process, between a test data set and a plurality of reference data sets and providing a statistically derived decision as to whether the test data set is associated with one or more of the diseases.

Art Unit: 1647

The specification nor any prior art of record exemplify no such correlation or statistically derived decision as to whether any test data set embraced by the claims can be associated with one or more of the diseases recited in the claims.

Applicant argues that the invention is not directed to making a determination of or discovering unknown antibodies. This is not agreed with. Claim 1 does not identify the autoantibodies to be tested or detected. Claims 7 and 8 list some autoantibodies; however, claim 5, for example, specifically embraces 100 autoantibodies. This is more than the number of particular antibodies disclosed by the specification. Thus, more autoantibodies would be required to be discovered, chosen, or selected for inclusion in the method.

As set forth in the prior Office action, the specification provides no direction or guidance on how to adapt known statistical pattern recognition means to solve their particular problem. There are no working examples. Computational methods of diagnosis are quite complicated such that even though the skill of those in the art is high, such inventions are difficult to develop and validate.

Applicant has not addressed the difficulties in diagnosing autoimmune disorders based upon transient symptoms, overlapping symptoms, variations in normal antibody levels, and so forth as set forth in the prior Office action and how the disclosure provides guidance to one of ordinary skill in the art on these issues in developing the claimed computer-implemented method.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
